

We always thought that living in an apartment meant ARGUING with the landlord, PUTTING UP WITH traffic noise 24/7, DRAGGING our clothes to the laundromat and WISHING for a parking spot less than a mile away.

Boy, were we WRONG!!

Hey, TED It's Definitely Time to Move...UP

I'm writing to you from our new 2-bedroom apartment at Landing Heights. We're using the extra room for a home theater/video game room. I set-up the PS2 right away. Can't wait to have you guys over!

This place is so big there's plenty of room for all our stuff. We have this great kitchen, two baths and a huge balcony right off the living room. There's also an amazing pool. Can't wait 'til summer...can you say party?

Who knew this place existed? And we're so close to our old apartment we can be at Jines for Sunday Brunch in just a few minutes. Now, we're right down the street from Ellison Park and that great kayaking spot on the Bay I told you about.

If all this is possible on my salary, what are you waiting for?
